

zincwhite

Hello and welcome to the world of Zincwhite. We are Lidia and Paul and we have been upcycling industrial waste and discarded objects into contemporary jewellery and fashion accessories since 2010.

We run Zincwhite from our studio in Huddersfield where we design and handmake all our pieces. Quirky and bold, all our jewellery is about making the wearer feel as special as the materials we transform to make it.

We create our original pieces from scratch, and all of our jewellery is made by hand by us. We are most known for our pencil jewellery made from recycled Derwent pencils, but you will also discover pieces made from old typewriter components and artist's paintbrushes and anything else that has been discarded and has caught our eye. We love learning about new and traditional techniques, finding new materials to be reclaimed that are challenging and to push the boundaries of ethical, sustainable design.

As an artist and an architect we are passionate about good craftsmanship and originality as well as affordability and comfort. We like to think that zincwhite can be worn by anyone and we take inspiration from art, architecture and our natural environment.

Whenever possible we try to source our materials from within our community - leftovers from industrial processes or objects that have reached the end of their life. We are constantly looking at reducing our carbon footprint and our big aim for 2013 is to become carbon neutral. We are passionate about the environment and believe good design does not need to cost the earth!

Now, this is where the magic happens...
